DEAR FRIENDS.

At harvest we enjoyed a joyful Parish service as part of which we focussed on the many and varied gifts which we see in each other. For a little while I would like to suggest that we need to focus on what is often called Stewardship. Although people sometimes think of this as fundraising by another name that is an unfortunate error! Stewardship refers to our relationship with God and our response to his generosity towards us. He is generous in giving us gifts, in sending his Holy Spirit to guide our lives and in giving us opportunities to help to change our world for the better. Of course there are many situations in which we need funding to allow us to do important things but it is the willingness to respond to God's generosity which must come first. In his Gospel Matthew makes it clear that if we accept God as our Sovereign then this simply has to affect the way in which we live.

This month I would like to address two particular questions which occur quite frequently within our Church. One is the desire to work and to give to 'our' Church - meaning the local or familiar building and group of people with whom we most identify. At its best this can include the type of faithful and reliable witness which enables us to present our buildings and our congregations to the wider world in a way which shows how much we value our faith. Unfortunately it can also lead to a willingness to keep our financial contributions 'in house'. The mistaken idea that giving to the local Church rather than to the Parish will ensure the survival of that particular Church is more likely than not to lead to the complete opposite. If Sarah or her successor leads a Parish which cannot pay its way as a Parish then buildings will close or more will be added to her care as the number of clergy shrinks. This is fact. I therefore urge every one of you to consider prayerfully and carefully your giving both in amount and in manner - a regular contribution through the Parish Giving Scheme has so many advantages that I heartily recommend it. What we choose to do with our own resources is a choice in response to God's generosity.

A second thing to think about is how we support each other in making the most of our various gifts. I never cease to be amazed at how effectively each and every member of each and every congregation will step in to do what is necessary when the need is clear. Nowhere is this more obvious than where the gaps left by Sarah's absence are filled without fuss by so many individuals. The knowledge that we are doing God's work with good result, however apparently trivial this might be, should give us all confidence that when we work for God rather than for ourselves the result can be amazing. When, during the weeks to come, your local minister chats to you about how you see your gifts being used within the Church don't do yourself down. Be confident. Understand that we all see that you have much to offer in response to God's generous love - perhaps it is just your modesty that stands in the way.

We will be looking at Stewardship in various ways until Christmas. Let us enjoy celebrating each other's unique, God given range of gifts.

God bless

Alan.

Careful!

There was a very gracious lady who was mailing an old family Bible to her brother in another part of the country. 'Is there anything breakable in here?' asked the postal clerk.

The lady thought for a moment, and replied: 'Only the Ten Commandments.'

Morning

There are only two kinds of people in the world. There are those who wake up in the morning and say, 'Good morning, Lord,' and there are those who wake up in the morning and say, 'Good Lord, it's morning.'

Engagement: Living out Christ's love and hope

Connecting with new housing developments in innovative ways, the Bishop of Tewkesbury, the Rt Revd Robert Springett engagement Earlier this year I moved house and I have been reflecting on the process by which empty rooms have been turned into a home, unpacking, deciding where things should go, occupying the space, so that now six months on it is a place of returning and rest.

We know we have an acute housing shortage in this country, but this is more than simply a matter of bricks and mortar, it is about homes, for us, for our children and theirs, homes as a place to live and from which to build community. This is something we know a thing or two about as the church too, we have been building community in England since the year the year 597!

As part of our LIFE vision and the housing priority within that, we are pooling that knowledge to help enable us to build community today. We have identified three strands to this work. Where there are smaller developments it is about helping existing communities integrate new homes into their life, offering a welcome and hospitality. To help us in this we are planning some workshops in early 2018 and we are also developing a welcome pack for our communities to adapt and use as part of their ministry. In our largest developments, of which we have currently identified five, we are looking to early engagement to work in partnership with the developers to build new communities by a mix of the appointment of pioneer ministers and church planting. Lastly we are planning a consultation on how we respond to medium sized developments which is perhaps our greatest challenge. These are developments not large enough to form a new community but equally of a size that is bigger than can easily be absorbed by an existing community without careful thought and planning.

The challenge of new housing is not easy, but at its heart are homes and those who will live in them, and our commitment that they, as all who live in our diocese, will find life in all its fullness, the life we know in Christ.

Bishop Robert will lead two gatherings in January, which will help parishes explore how they can engage with small housing developments. More info to come. To register your interest, contact Helen Wolfson on hwolfson@glosdioc.org.uk

Welcoming people to new housing developments – experience from Kemble by Martin Kingston

Engaging with people into their new homes makes them feel welcomed into the community that they have moved into. It provides them with a point of contact and useful information about their new community.

Kemble is a medium to large size village with a mix of older and newer housing developments. The new housing development we welcomed people into consisted of 47 new houses of different sizes, 30% of which were affordable housing. We made contact with the developer's sales office to explain that the PCC wanted to be able to welcome people into the village. The sales office staff were friendly and pleased that their purchasers would be receiving a welcome into the village.

We put together a welcome pack including a leaflet containing local information, a parish magazine with the contact number of the visitor and, if appropriate a leaflet about Kemble Primary School. When we were told by the sales office that a new occupier had moved in, we delivered the welcome pack and a bunch of flowers personally to the house, choosing a time of day that the family was likely to be at home. After visiting, a note was made of the new residents and their address in order to avoid any duplication of visits.

If you have never engaged in this activity before, you will find that a new enlivening and rewarding experience awaits you which is very effective in extending a warm welcome to new residents.

holding a day for young women to come and explore your vocation. It may not be a calling to ordained ministry, but to another type of ministry – this is an opportunity to listen to how God might be leading you. St HUGH of LINCOLN 17th November

In the Middle Ages, bishops were very important people. They were not only men of the church but also involved in running the country. They lived in great palaces and did not have much to do with ordinary people.

Bishop Hugh of Lincoln was different. He became known and loved for his charity to the poor; he cared for lepers and even risked his own life to prevent the killing of Jewish people during riots.

The Bishop rebuilt Lincoln Cathedral after it was destroyed by a great earthquake in 1185, but to him people were always more important than all the carved stones.

If you go to Lincoln, look out for the pictures of swans because

St. Hugh is usually shown with a swan. He had a pet swan which guarded him while he was asleep.
